I DON'T TURN ON MY HEADLIGHTS BECAUSE:

1. I AM NOT A SHEEP
2. I REFUSE TO LIVE IN FEAR
3. I CAN SEE JUST FINE
4. I RESPECT YOUR CHOICE TO USE YOUR LIGHTS, SO RESPECT MY CHOICE NOT TO
5. IF OTHER DRIVERS CAN NOT SEE ME, THAT IS THEIR PROBLEM.
6. IT MAY BE A LAW, BUT IT IS UNJUST AND INFRINGES ON MY CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS
7. I HAVE A MEDICAL EXEMPTION AND YOU ARE NOT ALLOWED TO ASK ME ABOUT THAT
8. I AM A MEMBER OF THE FREEDOM TO DRIVE IN THE DARK COMMITTEE

Smallpox killed more than 300 million people in 20th century alone.
We never reached natural 'herd immunity,' in over 5,000 years.
DEFEATED via VACCINE

The ones refusing to wear masks will be the reason why we end up closing down again. And they will be the ones bitching the most about the re-closing that they are responsible for.

While most people develop normally, some get stuck in the "YOU CAN'T MAKE ME!" stage.

"I can't breathe."

"I can't breathe."

"I don't want to be alone."

"I don't want to be alone."

"I don't want my face covered."

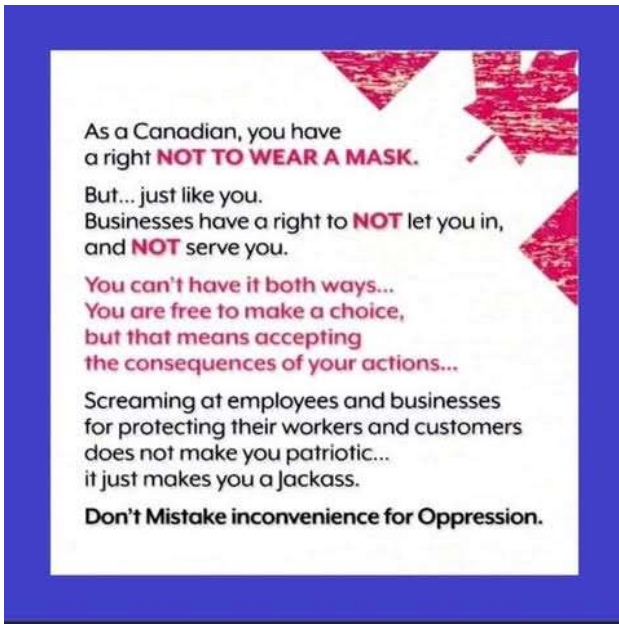

"I don't want my face covered."

I've moved on from Be Kind, Be Calm and Be Safe to Grow Up, Shut Up and Mask Up.

You were never told to surrender your civil liberties
You were asked to help each other stay healthy and survive

SCOTTISH VARIANT

I particularly like the first one and the one about smallpox. But they all have a message that's worth considering, even if you disagree. If getting vaccinated were just about whether or not you might get sick, I'd say it was 100% a personal choice. Trouble is, it's more about whether or not you infect others.
